New Year's baby welcomed

It was three days late, but Baby New Year finally arrived in Drayton Valley.

Christopher Edward John Bustin was born Jan. 3 just in time for dinner at the Drayton Valley Health Care complex and weighed in at better than 4½ kilograms (eight pounds).

Parents Theresa Bustin and Edward Machuk were "thrilled" with the birth but didn't think having a New Year's baby would make things too different in the baby's future.

Christopher also received a layette organized by the Oilwell chapter of the Alberta Registered Nursing Assistant Association.

The layette included some $1,500 in gifts including a baby seat, stuffed animals and donations from more than 80 local retailers, merchants and oil companies.

RNA chapter president Donna Oscar said response to this year's layette was quite good and was better than last year.

"(The layette) gives merchants a chance to welcome the baby," she said. "It's not all the time you see 80 merchants in town do one thing together."

Future looks good

Development has mayor optimistic

Mayor Bob Mayhew hopes the construction boom Drayton Valley enjoyed this past year continues into the new year.

It's because of that construction and a generally good feeling hereabouts that the mayor is very optimistic about 1985.

Some sort of official word is expected soon on the proposed $120 million pulp and fine paper mill. Mayor Mayhew reports, "The town is working with the developers, doing everything they can." The mayor hopes to see some action on this project by spring.

The mayor also reports that Dome Petroleum is looking at an office complex for Drayton in the months ahead.

Add to the list of the proposed pulp and fine paper mill and Dome's plans, the 17-suite senior citizens' complex.

This type of development follows on the heels of the new hospital which opened last year along with the new indoor swimming pool which has scheduled a Feb. 9 official opening. There's also Amoco's $3 million complex, the new RCMP quarters and the addition at Stukura Auctions.

Besides all the construction underway in town, the mayor is optimistic about developments in the oil patch.

One of Drayton Valley's major accomplishments this past year, according to the mayor, was the acquisition of the 1986 Alberta Senior Games.

As far as council priorities are concerned, the mayor says the town will go after more industrial development in an attempt to offset taxes and strengthen the community.

The mayor, who celebrates his 30th year in Drayton Valley in June, doesn't want to see another boom, just solid, steady growth. And early indications are that he may see his wishes come true.

Editor joins newspaper staff

The Western Review has a new editor. Frank Ryan of Red Deer joined The Western Review staff last week, replacing Stuart Adams, who leaves Drayton Valley after two and a half years, for a public relations position with TransAlta Utilities.

Ryan brings more than 20 years experience in the newspaper field to Drayton Valley along with several awards for his work in sports and a strong community background.

His newspaper career includes seven years as news and sports editor with Adviser Publications in Red Deer and 10 years at the Peace River Block News in Dawson Creek, B.C. where he was managing editor for six years and sports editor four years.

In 1979 Ryan was awarded the Max Bell Memorial award, presented annually by Sport Alberta, to the journalist or broadcaster who makes the biggest contribution to amateur sports through the media. Four years before that, he won the Sportsman-of-the-Year award at Dawson Creek for his work behind the scenes.

He was very active in Red Deer, serving two years as president of the Christmas Bureau, the Red Deer Branch of the Canadian Red Cross and the Lions Speed Skating Club. He was also president of the Red Deer Branch of Special Olympics for the Mentally Handicapped for one term.

Prior to accepting the position with The Western Review, Ryan was official scorekeeper and public address announcer at home games for the Alberta Junior A Hockey League Red Deer Rustlers and the Alberta College Athletic Conference Red Deer Kings hockey clubs. He also did Rustler play-by-play hockey on CKRD radio for two seasons.

For the past two summers he was secretary-treasurer and statistician of the Red Deer Major Mens Fastball League and a member of the organizing committee for the Western Canada Senior Baseball championships held in Red Deer this past summer. At the present time, he is on the Carling O'Keefe amateur baseball awards committee.

Australian enthused about teaching locally

By Carol Dietrich

Students at Frank Madcock High School will be hearing words like 'petrol' and 'jumpers' in the next few weeks and may have a bit of trouble understanding.

But then it isn't every Alberta student who has the benefit of an Australian instructor.

Laurie Frost is participating in a teacher exchange program with English teacher Tom Sperling and will be teaching in Sperling's place for one year at the local high school.

From the Australian province of Victoria, Frost has taught for the past 16 years but has not taken part in an exchange before.

He arrived in Drayton Valley last week with Anne Griffiths and their three children and they've already formed some impressions.

"We've met lots of people and find Canadians friendly."

"But we have had a bit of difficulty being understood."

He said many people get confused when it comes to Australian slang. Words like 'petrol' instead of 'gas', 'jumper' instead of 'sweater' and 'dummy' instead of 'soother' generally draw blank looks from Canadians.

"We know the right Canadian words because of the American influence in Australia so we have a bit of an advantage over people here."

But Frost said he's not sure if he should use Australian slang when he is teaching or use our words. "I guess I'll just have to see how it goes at first."

"I've had a look at the high school and find it well-equipped and well set-up," he added.

"I'm looking forward to getting to know the Alberta educational system and getting to know the kids."

But Frost himself will not be the only one of the five to experience education in Alberta firsthand. The two eldest children, David, 12, and Robyn, 10, will attend Elementary 'B' school until the end of June.

Coming to Drayton Valley from Shepparton, a city with a population of 30,000, caused them a bit of concern, he said. "But we're enjoying ourselves."

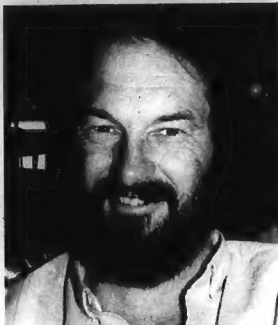

"We like the clear sunny days and how beautiful the snows looks on the houses and trees." But the five appreciate the snow for another reason as well.

"We're looking forward to skiing." There is a limited amount of skiing in Australia, he said, but they are among the few that do take to the slopes.

Driving was a little difficult at first, Frost said. "Our cars are the same as those in Britain."

"So the steering wheels are on the right-hand side of the car and in Australia we drive on the right side of the road." But it didn't take long to adjust, he said.

Another thing that will take adjusting to is prices. Prices in Canada are generally higher, he said.

Laurie Frost will teach in Drayton Valley.

And though Sperling and Frost are trading jobs, houses and cars, they are not trading wages. "We may find it a bit difficult to live on our income."

The family didn't come to Canada totally unprepared, he added. "We have a Canadian friend in Australia and another friend lived in Calgary so we partly knew what to expect."

And Sperling and Frost corresponded regularly and sent information to each other.

The two got to know each other fairly well that way, Frost added. "We discovered we were both easy-going."

The two families lived together in Drayton Valley for about three days. But not yet to see each other again.

Frost said he thinks he will enjoy living here but added, "I'll miss a full-year of golf and squash."

Changes coming for fishermen

Commercial fishermen in Alberta will see more changes in provincial regulations if proposals to curtail fishing licenses are approved by government later this month.

Changes to the present licensing system are before the province's rural development committee and if approved, would strengthen commercial operations in Alberta by reducing license access. According to Stephen Kendall, head of Fish and Wildlife's commercial fishing section, the proposal would "move Alberta commercial fishing from open access fishing to a form of limited entry fishing — based on a system of transferable licenses."

Essentially, the changes would mean only a specific number of licensed fishermen would have access to such areas as Buck Lake or Lake Wabuman when they're open for commercial fishing.

Buck Lake held its yearly commercial fishing date last Friday where some 150 fishermen turned out with gear. Lake Wabuman has an open day in March.

Financially, commercial fishing nets some $2 million a year in Alberta, Kendall said, divided between 2,000 to 3,000 licensees.

In April 1983, Fish and Wildlife placed a freeze on the number of commercial licenses issued as a "temporary measure to prevent the problem of too many fishermen and not enough fish," he said.

Alberta has an "extremely limited" resource base for fishing, he explained, adding the province also has "one of the last open access policies in existence."

"It's absolutely ridiculous to think anyone is making a living out of this (open access fishing)."

Commercial fishing is in for a change.

The proposal will make commercial fishing a more "stable and viable" venture in the province, Kendall said.

"We can't increase the catch, so we have to find a way, as painlessly as possible, to reduce the number of fishing operations."

Under the privileged and transferable system, license holders can assign or sell their license at any time, but the total number of licenses in circulation will remain constant, Kendall explained.

"People will voluntarily decide if they're going to stay in commercial fishing," he said. "At the same time, no one is forced out of it."

Commercial fishermen will be able to expand their operations by acquiring license privileges. The market will decide who continues and not the government, he continued.

The number of licenses issued should remain at about the present level.

Although he expects a decision on the proposal sometime this month, Kendall said the new regulations will not fully affect operations until the 1986 fiscal year. A transition period will begin, however, when the proposal is approved sometime in 1985.

After provincial endorsement, the proposal must be adopted by the federal government.

Education trustees defeat honoraria cut

The Parkland County Board of Education defeated a bid by one of its members to slash trustees' honoraria by 10 per cent.

Division 3 Councillor Carl Baron argued that county employees are being asked to take cuts or freezes in pay.

"I wonder if we should be setting an example here," he said.

Baron was outvoted by board members who voted to restructure the honoraria and expenses members are paid to reflect the restructured committee meetings.

Complex construction to begin Jan. 15

Construction of a 17-unit senior citizens complex in Drayton Valley is expected to start Jan. 15 and with it comes an opportunity for local workers.

"We expect to hire as many locals as we can," said Don Saunders, president of Handy Andy Construction of Edmonton which was awarded the contract for the facility.

He noted, including subcontractors, about 60 people will be involved with building construction which is expected to be complete Jan. 15, 1986.

The company presented a tender of about $780,800 for the complex to be built at 50 Ave. 47

St., at the site where the hospital was previously located.

The project is being financed through Alberta Mortgage and Housing Corporation (AMHC) which will also cover any operating deficits along with Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

AMHC spokesman Joan McCracken said the building will provide affordable living for seniors, with rent to be set at 25 per cent of a tenant's income.

Once complete, the two-story building will be managed by the Purple Pansy Senior Citizens Society of Drayton Valley which also oversees operations at the local Wishing Well apartments.

Members now will receive a basic honorarium of $2,448 per year ($204 per month). On top of that they will receive an allowance of $1,224 per year ($102 per month) for expenses other than travel.

The basic honorarium covers two regular board or committee meetings a month regardless of length or whether the member attends.

Members get an additional honorarium of $92 and an allowance of $46 for authorized special meetings or committee work or half those amounts for half-day or evening meetings.

They may also submit claims for attending certain outside meetings.

The board chairman gets an additional $1,224 per year plus $612 for expenses. Committee chairman get an additional honorarium of $308 and $153 for expenses.

Members also get 25 cents per kilometre travelled from their residences to meetings.

Division 1 Councillor Ron Pollock argued that county staff received pay increases in years the board didn't.

"That would be a backward step," he said of Baron's proposed cut.

Western Review editor impressed with Drayton Valley

How do you feel about being investigated?

You likely want more information — as to who is conducting the investigation and why.

Before you get your backs up, let me explain.

Windmill stands alone

A lone figure on the face of the earth this windmill reminds us of our past. At one time windmills stood all along the country side, generating electricity, pumping water up from wells or whatever their strong arm tasks were. Now they stand retired, facing the wind and turning their blades.

When Lynard Publishers approached me about the editor's job at The Western Review, they suggested a fact-finding trip to Drayton Valley. You have to realize, that in the eight years we had lived in Alberta, our travels never brought us to this area of the province.

Accompanied by my wife, we carried out our investigation in mid-December.

The first thing to check out was the education system for our three children. Office personal at Eldorado Elementary, Elementary 'B' and H.W. Pickup Junior High were most helpful.

The lady at the Town office was also very co-operative toward prospective residents. We came away with an armful of literature.

Real estate people have been a big help in our search for accommodation. That search continues.

Your new hospital and indoor swimming pool, a good cross-section of stores, attractive residential areas, recreation facilities and a good community newspaper helped make our decision.

A day after visiting your Town, I accepted the job.

Both my wife and myself are looking forward to re-locating in Drayton Valley. Although we have lived in Red Deer for the past eight years, we both come from similar size communities in the Peace River country.

As we understand it, Drayton Valley offers one a chance to get involved in community happenings, and I am looking forward to that opportunity.

From our one-day fact-finding trip to Drayton Valley, we gave your Town a passing grade and look forward to becoming part of the community.

Aurevoir Guy Lafleur, hello Wayne Gretzky

Good day,

I'm the new guy, as I have often been labelled this past week, at The Western Review. For the record, my name is Frank Ryan and they call me editor.

In this space, in the months ahead, I will ramble on about some of my likes (Wayne Gretzky) and my dislikes (the Montreal Canadiens), hand out bouquets and just generally talk about happenings that have come to my attention. The more serious matters will be discussed in my weekly editorial.

Our family is looking forward to the move here, once suitable housing can be found. But, it likely won't be before Feb. 1, as our oldest son is writing semester exams at month's end.

Editor's Notes

From what I've seen of your community, our three children will like their new home. Who wouldn't be happy with a new indoor swimming pool and a very impressive ski hill. I'm no skier, I leave that to my boys.

Stuart Adams, the managing editor here for the past two and a half years, packed up his belongings last week and moved onto Edmonton and his new job with TransAlta Utilities. And, I watched closely to make sure he took all his Montreal Canadiens' collectables.

If you haven't guessed by now, I'm not a Canadiens fan. I'm not even an Edmonton Oilers fan. I like Wayne Gretzky. Who doesn't? But some of the moves made by Oiler management don't excite me. I follow all the Sutters because they played junior hockey in Red Deer.

A bouquet to my landlords, June and Jerry Merwin. These two people have helped a great deal in my move to Drayton Valley. It's tough when one leaves the family to take a job elsewhere. On the weekend the Merwins took me on a tour of the area which I really enjoyed. Thanks for your hospitality folks.

Blowout complaints tiresome

Dear Editor,

I'd like to respond to last week's letter to your paper regarding Amoco's blowout.

First of all, the crews on drilling rigs are not inexperienced children required to go running around the area checking to see who is "sensitive to sour gas." That is really quite ridiculous. I also fail to understand what the roughneck has to do with this and I resent the writer implying that a roughneck doesn't have the intelligence to understand drilling procedures and risks involved. There are teachers who work as roughnecks during the summer and university students who pay their tuition the same way. Don't underestimate people.

Secondly, I'm tired of hearing people crying about the blowout. It's ironic how people fuel up their vehicles, change the oil and heat their homes and never give it a thought. It's expected. So how dare Amoco drill near sour gas just to give us luxuries like heat and transportation! Luxuries? No, necessities! Well the oil industry is full of chances and risks. Where would we be if no one ever took a chance on anything? For those of you who complain, think about it the next time you fill up your car and let's all hope that another blowout doesn't occur.

Yours truly,
Vicki Oster

Woodburning stoves can result in fire

If you have a woodburning stove in your home you also have a potential fire hazard.

Drayton Valley firefighters were called to a chimney fire in Violet Grove Jan. 3 and firechief Sheldon Fuson said the cause was common to all woodburning systems.

"There was a buildup of creosote (a byproduct of incomplete combustion) in the chimney which clogged it up," he noted, adding the occupants of the home also had the propane system hooked up to the same chimney outlet, making the situation even more dangerous.

Although no one was harmed from the fire and damages were limited to the chimney, Fuson felt the incident could have been avoided through proper knowledge of woodburning stove systems.

"I think there are a lot of people who are not aware of it (creosote buildup hazards) and also a lot of people who ignore the fact," he said.

"They don't realize how fast creosote buildup can occur and the dangers that are involved with it."

The number of woodburning stoves being installed locally and the threat creosote presents has prompted the Town of Drayton Valley to sponsor an information seminar on the subject Jan. 14.

"We get numerous calls to our office on the proper installation of woodburning systems) so this seminar is well overdue," said Fuson.

He pointed out the local fire department does not inspect newly installed woodburning fireplaces because it's not economically feasible, leaving responsibility on the homeowner.

Fuson said it's important the proper chimney is installed, as there are different types suited for various stove models.

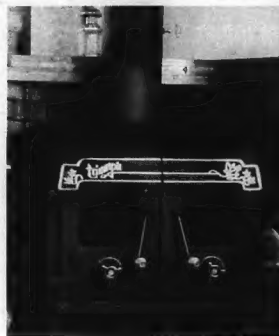

Once in use, woodburning stove chimneys should be checked at least once a month for creosote buildup and cleaned as necessary with a brush.

"The type of wood used and degree of fire will influence the amount of buildup," he noted.

Green damp wood and slow burning embers will increase the amount of creosote produced.

But although there are various factors involved with substance buildup, Fuson said prevention is the main answer for avoiding hazards.

The Jan. 14 seminar will be conducted by members of the Alberta Building Standards Branch at no charge from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the Parkland County building.

Woodburning fireplaces can be dangerous if the chimney is not cleaned regularly.

Local construction increases in past year

If the 1984 building statistics for Drayton Valley have anything to say, it appears optimism for the town's future is at a high.

A whopping $6.4 million worth of building took place in the town last year, compared to $2.8 million in construction in 1983.

According to figures released by town hall as a result of building permits-issued, residential, industrial and institutional building projects all came to a higher value in 1984 than in 1983.

Residential construction, which includes renovations and additions as well as new dwellings, totalled $2.4 million last year, compared to $1.5 million in 1983.

Town manager Manny Deol said contributing to the high figure was the construction of 35 new homes in Drayton Valley.

"Things are very busy here compared to any other towns this size," he noted.

Building permits issued for industrial purposes in 1984 were valued at $413,000 — noticeably higher than the $255,000 worth of building recorded in 1983.

The main factor accounting for the higher value of industrial buildings was a permit issued to a local firm in September for the construction of new facilities.

The value of institutional construction in 1984 was about six times greater than in the previous year.

Deol said construction of the local indoor swimming pool, reservoir and RCMP facilities were largely responsible for bringing the total to $3.4 million, compared to $550,000 in building in 1983.

The only area in which building was down in terms of dollars in 1984 was commercial which dropped from $341,000 in 1983 to $255,000.

"That's not surprising since mainly renovations were done and that's about it."

Although we've now moved into another year of building in Drayton Valley and it's not easy to predict how much construction will be done, Deol is enthusiastic about the future.

"It's looking good for 1985."

Breton completes five year development plan

The Village of Breton has completed a five-year development plan and will seek public input at a meeting scheduled January 15.

According to Mayor Colleen Lee, the village is committed to improving town facilities — including road improvements and downtown renewal — but councillors are looking for some response from residents before going ahead.

"We want input from them (the public). We want their approval or disapproval on what we want to do," Lee said. "If we don't get any, I guess we'll go with it as is."

The General Municipal Plan lists seven goals the village council wants to achieve, including reaching a population level of up to 1,500 residents, to stimulate the renewal, expansion and development of the village's commercial core (downtown) and to keep residential and industrial growth in check with municipal services.

A public survey conducted last summer showed the primary concern among village residents were condition of municipal roads, Lee said. Although the general plan does not include specific proposals for upgrading, it does say improvements such as paving will not take place until planned major underground utilities are in place.

The plan also includes provisions for a parking policy and a designated truck route.

Lee said the village has not completed its budget for 1985 and nor has it made any financial commitments towards the goals and development policies outlined in the plan.

Entwistle councillor replaced

Local chosen by acclamation

David Gylander will step in as the newest Village of Entwistle councillor after being nominated Jan. 7.

The fifty-six-year-old meat cutter was chosen by acclamation, replacing resigned council member and mayor Monika Capps.

He has been a resident of Entwistle since 1952 and said he decided to get involved with council activities after selling his local food store, which he works at part-time.

"Now that I'm not as busy I thought I could devote some time," he explained.

This is Gylander's first experience as a municipal councillor and he said he plans to "learn what goes on" before committing himself to any issues.

The next meeting of Entwistle village council is Jan. 14.

Hospital program looking for volunteers

By Carol Dietrich

Dependability, a time commitment and a genuine desire to help people are the major ingredients in any successful volunteer.

And the Drayton Valley And District Health Complex is looking for all these things from applicants for its own volunteer program.

The program, scheduled to begin the first week in February, will place interested people in basically all areas of the hospital, said volunteer co-ordinator Peggy Strass.

Positions include activity programmer, clothing distributor, exercise group assistant, materials management - clerical and printing assistant, patient visitor, dietary helper - selective menus, admitting consultant, tea hostess, resident's companion and gift shop clerk.

"I've had a total of 31 applications. The most popular choices are resident's companion, visitor to patient and tea hostess."

The positions require between one hour to four hours a day, she said. "The time commitment is flexible for all of them."

"Evenings work best for students and working people."

Once the program is in place, volunteers will work in the hospital seven days a week.

Response to the program has been fairly good, she said. To this point the majority of volunteers have been between the minimum age of 18, and 15 years.

"I thought (the numbers) would lean toward the teens, but I'm hoping we'll get some older volunteers as well," she added.

At present there is no definite amount of people needed. "The number depends on the time commitment given by the volunteers."

"We could use a lot more applicants now." No deadline for applications exists because the program will continue indefinitely once it is established.

And once involved in the program, any volunteer can switch positions if he/she is not happy with the initial assignment. "It's important that the volunteer is satisfied with what they are doing."

The program could expand as time goes on. "We hope to create new jobs where they are needed and to add volunteers."

To see that everything runs smoothly the volunteer program will be reviewed every year, Strass said.

"The overall objective of both the staff and volunteers is the comfort of the patient or resident."

Bonspiel goes this weekend

Drayton Valley curlers can look forward to quality competition at this weekend's 20th annual Olmets Bonspiel.

More than 200 curlers will be on hand at the Drayton Valley Curling Club for the three-day event which starts Friday at 9 a.m. and wraps up Sunday night.

Although organizers from the Pembina Olmets Association have no plans to commemorate the bonspiel's 20th year, they expect stiff competition from the 48 rinks entered.

"It's very competitive," organizer Fred Baumann said, "there's some nice curling that takes place."

The bonspiel's entry quota was filled early in December and organizers have had about 14 additional applications since.

Although half the rinks entered are sponsored by oil or oil related firms outside Drayton Valley, Baumann said many non-local entries include local curlers.

Edmonton's Porta-Test, led by skip John Penning, won last year's top event, beating Little D.V. Meter. It was Porta-Test's fourth victory here in 10 years.

Hi Alta won last year's second event while Tools Unlimited won the third event.

Blades beat Rimbey lose to Hinton

By Frank Ryan

Coach Lorne Poulin saw two versions of his Drayton Valley Blades hockey team last weekend — one he liked, the other he'd seen before.

Playing two games on home ice, the club's first since Dec. 21, the Blades were the victims of a 14-4 romp by the Hinton Cardinals Saturday night, just 24 hours after they played their first game of the year, a 3-2 win over the Rimbey West Stars.

Coach Poulin was speechless after both contests. He didn't find much to talk about in the loss to Hinton, other than every part of their game fell apart. After the Blades fell behind 10-3 early in the third period, Poulin used the rest of the game to ready his chargers for Sunday's game at Barrhead.

Against Rimbey, fans went expecting another blowout, but instead, saw playoff style hockey. Poulin said, "Give the guys credit, they worked hard."

Goaltender Kevin Makarowski came in for praise in the Rimbey contest. He kept his mates in the game. While Makarowski did his job between the posts, 18-year-old Dean Mulgrew was the offensive hero. He had all three goals with the winner coming at 17:40 of the third frame. Blair Andrew scored both Rimbey goals.

The West Stars led 1-0 after the opening period and the teams battled through a scoreless middle stanza, setting the stage for the dramatic third.

Goaltender Makarowski could have sued for non-support in Saturday's game, as he was the last defence in many cases.

The game was really over before it started, as the Cardinals jumped into a first period 5-2 lead and made it 9-3 after 40 minutes.

Glen Lalonde led Hinton with four goals and three assists. Mike McDonald, Rob Walker and Doug Pankiwich all had two-goal efforts. Cal Beauchamp chipped in with six assists.

Doug Bacon led the Blades with two goals. Mike Benoit and Walt Evenson added singles.

On Sunday, the local junior 'B' club lost in Barrhead to the Junior Elks 6-5. The Blades led 3-1 after the first period but fell behind after Barrhead scored five unanswered goals. Blades held the Elks scoreless in the third period scoring and scored their final two games.

On Wednesday, the Blades travel to Rocky Mountain House and to Rimbey Friday.

minor hockey league action Thursday night at Centennial Civic Arena.

Flint downs J&A, Braidnor

Minor Hockey

Mites

The Flint Mites had a busy first week of 1985, downing house league cousins Braidnor and J&A.

Flint's Tyson Ultri scored three times Jan. 2 in his team's first win over Braidnor 9-2 and added two more in the clubs' second meeting Jan. 5. Flint won 6-1.

Against J&A, Flint's Lane Anker and Jason Vogel combined for five goals in a 5-1 win. Sheldon Wilson and Ryan Anker each had two assists.

Ian Cathrea had J&A's only goal in that game Jan. 6.

Curling

Three women's rinks came home empty handed from the Zone 18 finals in Stony Plain last weekend, despite early success in the bonspiel.

The Deanna Sluchinski rink beat Hinton and rivals Spruce Grove in the opening rounds then lost the A-B final to Spruce Grove Sunday.

Deb Collyer rink had a similar time, winning their opening games then losing in the semi-final and again in 'B' side curling.

A week layoff over Christmas and last week's problem with local ice had its effect on the Cindy Vowk rink which was eliminated from the double knock-out bonspiel in straight games.

Coach resigns from high school team

The Amazon basketball program at Frank Maddock High School could fold this weekend unless coaching and teacher support comes through to replace current coach Dave Schwindt.

Schwindt left his coaching position last week but will travel with the team to its next tournament in Barrhead as a teacher "advisor" only.

Citing problems with player motivation and commitment and a disappointing show at a tournament in Red Deer Jan. 5, Schwindt decided to discontinue coaching at the high school level.

The 11-year Amazon coach's decision will also affect the Warrior's program, forcing the team to find a teacher sponsor since head coach Barry Swap is not on school staff.

Parkland County School Board policy requires at least one staff supervisor for school teams when practising and on road trips.

Describing the Amazon situation as "dismal" and "glum", Schwindt is not sure the program will continue this year or even next.

"It's never happened before. It's the first time I've ever quit a team," he said.

While problems have become evident in the last two seasons, Schwindt said this year has been the worst in 10 years.

"We've already cancelled out of two tournaments just because we're too weak."

"We're at the same place where I picked it up 10 or 11 years ago. It's gone full circle. It's right down there and it'll have to stay down there."

"I can't understand why (anyone) would come out and not try their best," he said.

So far this season, the Amazons have yet to place on the winners' side of any of their four tournaments, including one held here last December.

Schwindt will stay with the junior high girls' basketball team he is currently coaching, but said he won't make a commitment to coach the Amazons next year.

"The program is going in the tank."

With the current policy regarding teacher supervision, it could make it difficult for both the Amazon and Warrior basketball programs to continue.

The Warrior program will continue "on a 'who we can get for game nights and weekends' kind of thing," coach Barry Swap said. "No one, I don't think, would want take that kind of thing on (full time) or they'd be coaching."

Swap added he was uncertain what will happen following the Barrhead tournament this weekend. Both the Warriors and the Amazons are scheduled to play.

In Red Deer, the boys' basketball team lost their starting games to Camrose and Brooks (a 62-42 loss Swap said was his players' best performance last weekend) and beat Hanna 35-34 in their final contest.

"I'm optimistic for the future," Swap said, "they're a good group of kids. We're not going to do much this year, but they've got the right attitude."

Hen-pecked men unite

"Take out the garbage."
"Yes, dear."
"Watch! Can't you see there's a car in front?"
"Yes, dear."

Sound familiar?

Yep. It happens to the best of them — the dreaded hen-pecked man syndrome.

However, before denying the use of a "yes, dear" in your entire life and then hiding from your wife in case she finds out, remember, you are not alone.

The World Order of Hen-Pecked Men has come to the rescue, thanks to John Miaszyk of Evansburg.

Twelve bucks and you've got yourself an official t-shirt, a certificate signed by "chief peckee" Miaszyk and a list of membership rules bound to keep you as henpecked as ever.

"We're hoping this thing will become as big as the pet rock," says Miaszyk, who dreamed up the scheme with his brother-in-law Gerry Mazer who's currently handling marketing of the memberships in Grande Prairie.

And it looks like this hen-pecked idea could result in more than just chicken feed for the duo.

With the Order just having recently taken shape, Miaszyk says marketing is already starting in New Brunswick, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

"Even when we went to open our bank account just about everyone working there bought memberships," he notes.

Miaszyk's next move is to introduce the t-shirts and certificates in Reno, Nevada where he'll be arm wrestling this week.

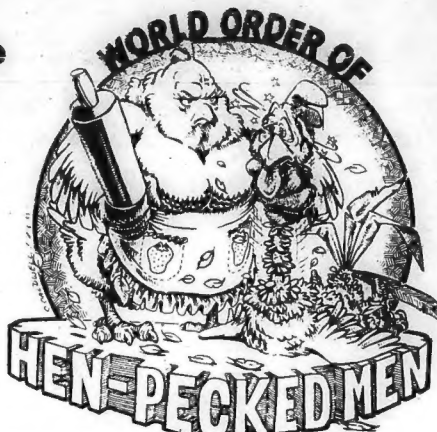

But his desire to reach out to more hen-pecked men doesn't end there.

"We've sent Johnny Carson a complimentary t-shirt and membership and we're hoping he'll be interested enough to have us on his show."

And how have Miaszyk's and Mazer's wives taken this all?

"They even helped us draw up the membership certificates and rules," says Miaszyk.

"They wouldn't let us do it by ourselves," he laughs.

Officers to be elected at annual meeting

Crime prevention programs will highlight Thursday's annual meeting of the Rural Crime Watch.

President Ron Szala, who is letting his name stand for another term, is hoping for a good turnout to the 7:30 p.m. meeting on Jan. 10 in the Rocky Rapids Hall.

Corporal Reid Leary, the RCMP's Crime Prevention co-ordinator and public relations officer for the northern region will be the guest speaker. His topic will deal with crime prevention as it relates to the Rural Crime Watch.

The agenda for the annual meeting will include the election of officers, setting up new programs and reports.

Rural Crime Watch was organized in the area about five years ago and today their membership sits at 109. Szala expects a good turnout for Thursday's meeting with a possibility of several new members attending from the Buck Lake Community League.

Szala says that one of the groups' priorities will call for the erection of Rural Crime Watch signs around members' property.

If re-elected, Szala would like to see the group obtain a higher profile. He says people know about the program, but not to the degree that he'd like to see.

Another priority on the groups' list is to come up with a major project. Several ideas have been discussed by executive members, but no action taken pending Thursday's meeting.

Anyone interested in the Rural Crime Watch program is invited to attend Thursday's meeting.

Terri Kittler is in Grade 7.

Student hopes to be mechanic

When you ask girls what they want to do when they get out of school, it isn't uncommon to hear the words 'nurse' or 'teacher'.

But it isn't every day that you'll hear the reply 'automotive mechanic'.

St. Anthony student Terri Kittler says that is one of her career choices. "I'd like to teach figure skating or fix cars."

As you would expect, the 12-year-old has a variety of interests that range from skating to playing piano to watching and playing football.

"I also saw Cabbage Patch Kid clothes but I don't sell them."

"They aren't very good," she added with a smile.

Reading is one of her pastimes and author Judy Blume rates as her favorite.

Movie star Elizabeth Taylor, actor Gary Coleman and country music star Kenny Rogers are among the Grade 7 student's top choices as well.

School work is important to her too. "I like math and social."

Kittler and her family have lived in Drayton Valley for seven years now, but travel is no stranger to them. "We lived in 16 places before I was nine because I was sick."

"We've lived in places like Stettler, Mirror, Red Deer and Saskatoon."

If she had a million dollars she would do more travelling. "I'd buy a condo in Hawaii and take a trip to Disneyland."

But her immediate plans include buying some fish.

Crime Stoppers report

Culprit sought for jewel theft

Crime Stoppers want to find the person responsible for stealing two pieces of jewellery from a Drayton Valley residence. Sometime between the 25th of Aug. 1984 and the 5th of Sept., 1984, person(s) unknowns entered the residence of Armand Houle, located at 4829-55 Ave. in Drayton Valley. No signs of forced entry were visible. While inside, the thief stole a one (1) karat emerald ring valued at $1,350 and one (1) lady's Seiko watch, valued at $285. Both items were taken from a jewellery box from the master bedroom. The thief then fled without removing anything else of value. To date, no suspects have come to light.

Crime Stoppers will pay a cash reward for information leading to the arrest of any of the persons responsible for this theft. If you have information on this or any other criminal offence, call Crime Stoppers, toll free, at 1-800-922-TIPS (922-9477). You do not have to reveal your identity and if your information leads to an arrest, you qualify for a reward.

Auction to double size

A new indoor arena at Sekura Auctions on Drayton Valley's south side is expected to be completed this summer.

The new structure will be 175-feet long and 110-feet wide and will house offices, two rings and pens.

It will be about twice the size of the existing building and will give Sekura Auctions a second show ring. The existing building, which is more than 20 years old, will be used for storage.

Ron Sekura reports that activity at their regular Wednesday sales has been good. And, things are already shaping up for the New Year with bookings for March, April and May.

$250 fine imposed

Youth convicted for careless driving offense

A 17-year-old youth was fined $250 and lost his driver's license for three months after being convicted in Drayton Valley provincial court Jan. 8 of careless driving.

Dean Daniel Hanson was charged following an incident about 12:30 p.m. Oct. 5 in which a girl engaged as a safety patrol on 43 St. received minor injuries.

The accused was driving his vehicle south-bound when he approached a marked crosswalk directed by two school safety patrols, said Cpl. Chris Lee.

"One of the patrols was on the road assisting children to cross and was carrying the safety patrol sign and wearing orange cross straps and belt."

The accused drove up toward the patrol and stopped his vehicle as the children were crossing, he said.

"His car inched forward and the bumper hit the patrol, forcing her to fall back."

He added, "The patrol spoke to Hanson but was met with verbal abuse."

The school patrol stayed on the road helping students to cross and returned to the curb as the accused drove off laughing, Lee said.

"As a result of the car's license number being recorded, Hanson was charged."

The patrol received a scratch and minor bruising on the upper left thigh, he said.

"We consider this to be very serious," Lee said.

"While we are disappointed with the fine, we do not plan to appeal it."

Chrysler recalls 1984 products

Woodland Chrysler in Drayton Valley isn't anticipating any problems with a recent recall of 1984 products.

Chrysler is recalling 1984 products equipped with the 2.2 litre carbureted engine which was built with an engine compartment fuel reservoir, that may be subject to fuel leakage at the reservoir seam and at its inlet hose connection. If a leak were to occur, there is a possibility that it could result in an engine compartment fire. Woodland Chrysler's service department will make the necessary repairs. About an hour will be required. Owner/manager Hank Henkel told The Western Review that he doesn't know exactly how many Chrysler vehicles will come in for the change. It could be between 12 and 20. One thing for sure, it won't create any hardships on Woodland's service department.

Planning adds excitement to packed lunches

By Janice McGregor
District Home Economist
542-5388

Brown bagging it doesn't have to mean boring lunches. With just a little imagination, planning and effort you can eat wisely when hunger pangs hit. And you can save money at the same time.

A bag lunch can cost a lot less than restaurant or cafeteria food, but how can you make sure it's packed with nutrition and interesting variety?

Vary the sandwich bread. Try crusty rolls, hamburger or hot dog buns, whole wheat or rye bread. Bagels and pita bread are now available in most supermarkets too, and can be filled with everything from grated carrots, shredded cabbage, alfalfa or bean sprouts, mushrooms, onions and tomatoes, as garnishes or added to sandwich fillings.

Protein foods are an important consideration in any bag lunch. Try a hard-boiled egg, cheese or peanut butter as occasional alternatives to more expensive meat, fish or poultry fillings.

If you take cottage cheese, yogurt, milk or sandwiches with cold cuts, chicken, tuna, salmon or egg fillings, refrigerate or freeze the lunch beforehand so the food will stay cold until it is ready to be eaten. A freezer gel pack or a can of frozen juice placed in the lunch box will keep the food cold, too. A juice will be unthawed by the time you are ready to drink it. The main concern is to prevent the development of bacteria in food held at a lukewarm temperature for three or four hours in a desk or school locker. When you consider more than 500,000 Canadians suffer from food poisoning every year, caused by improper handling of food, it's important to take a few precautions.

If your lunchtime crew is bored with sandwiches, use a thermos to pack left over chili, soup, stew or spaghetti and meat balls. Don't forget to include a spoon and crackers where necessary.

There are many single serving foods in easy to open or pull-top cans that add variety to a bag lunch. Several flavors of puddings, fruits and juices, baked beans, etc are available in individual containers.

Make everything as easy to eat as possible; cut tomatoes into wedges and other fruits and vegetables into bite-size pieces.

A good time to make up bag lunches is right after the evening meal when you can use up leftovers from the meal and not have to clean up the counter twice. It makes sense to save your time and energy when you have to prepare lunches 365 days a year.

Fender-benders plague town

Hit and run of vehicles is a serious problem in Drayton Valley according to Cpl. Chris Lee.

"This town is notorious for it. We have lots of them and there are a number of areas, like the malls, where if you park your vehicle you can almost be guaranteed it will be hit," he said.

"People seem to think the way to move vehicles is by bumping into them."

The vast majority of them go unsolved, he said. "There's nothing we can do because people hit vehicles and then leave."

STARVIEW

By David Gabriel

GOOD ADVICE Virginia Madsen was so nervous when she first met Robert Mitchum that she says, "I made a fool of myself." She had been an ardent fan, and now she was signed to co-star with her idol in "The Hearst and Davies Affair," airing Jan. 14 on ABC. "I rushed up to him, introduced myself, bubbled on for five full minutes, then turned around and walked off," she said. "He just stood there and stared."

Portraying actress Marion Davies in her torrid love affair with the married William Randolph Hearst, Miss Madsen learned a lot about herself, especially from Mitchum. "I learned to stop being so self-conscious and so self-critical," she says.

In other words, to stop being the Miss Davies off-screen. "Davies didn't believe in herself," Miss Madsen says. "She did all that great work and didn't believe she had it. She felt she could never live up to her publicity."

HERE IT COMES—Will Miss Cagney on "Cagney and Lacey" finally tie the knot? Miss Cagney played by Sharon Gless, has been going steady with boyfriend Dory Dory, played by Barry Primus, will finally pop the question on the Jan. 14 episode on CBS. "Our romance is one you don't often see on television," Primus says. "It's more mature, the sexual talk is more real than on other shows."

Their relationship has certainly become deeper, but will it actually lead to marriage? Will Miss Cagney really give up her single status and join Mary Beth Lacey, played by Tyne Daly, in becoming a married woman? An inside source says it will never happen. Part of the charm of the show is having the two stars on opposite sides of the altar.

Robert Mitchum stars in "The Hearst and Davies Affair," Jan. 14 on ABC.
